Statistics show how our sport continues to thrive

I would like to welcome everyone to the latest edition of the European Athletics Statistics Yearbook. As always, this publication provides a valuable insight into our sport as it documents the performances by European athletes during 2020.

It goes almost without saying that the last year has been an unprecedented one – for both our sport and the wider world – in ways that none of us could not have imagined at the start of 2020.

However, the fact that athletics was able to continue across the continent, as reflected in this Yearbook, is a testament to the indomitable spirit of everyone whose name appears in these lists and all those meeting organisers whose ingenuity and determination gave those athletes a platform on which to perform.

Under the circumstances, I think it has to be considered amazing that a number of world and European records were set in 2020 and I would like to just pick out three athletes who excelled in what can only be described as challenging circumstances and who made such a strong impact on the sporting world.

Armand Duplantis set world pole vault records of 6.17m and 6.18m during the indoor season before the coronavirus pandemic had taken hold but didn't rest on his laurels but had a full outdoor season before clearing a world outdoor best of 6.15m in Rome, breaking Sergey Bubka's previous best which had stood since 1994.

Sifan Hassan was once again arguable Europe's top female athlete and followed up her world one hour record in Brussels by also making the European 10,000m record her own a month later in October.

Finally, Karsten Warholm scared the world 400m hurdles record when he clocked 46.87 in Stockholm, the second fastest run ever, for his fourth European record over the barriers in little more than 14 months.

We lost so many top meetings from the international calendar in 2020, including our premier event the European Athletics Championships, but these few statistical examples demonstrate that many of Europe's top athletes kept on striving to excel in adversity. From the bottom of my heart, I would like to thank each and every one of you.

To conclude, I would like to pay tribute to the European Athletics statistician Mirko Jalava and his team for producing this publication, along with all the individual contributors and Member Federations who have supported and assisted him as well as the European Athletics Events and Communications Departments who were involved in producing this publication.

Dobromir Karaminov
European Athletics Interim President

Notes:

(1) The European Athletics Team Championships did not take place during the year of an Olympic Games (2012 & 2016) as per the European Athletics calendar structure. From 2017, the European Athletics Team Championships will be staged every two years.

(2) From 2021, the Super League will be composed of eight teams. This means five teams instead of three were relegated from the Super League in 2019 and only one team instead of three was promoted from the First League.

Introduction to the European Lists

European Athletics continues its tradition of publishing deep European lists. The lists have been compiled during the season, with most meetings added within days of the competition, and then amended at the end of the season using the national rankings lists from those countries where these were available. Additional results are included outside of these national lists as a result of the extensive research of results from all over the world.

- Mark
- Wind reading
- First name
- Surname
- Nationality
- Date of birth
- Height/weight
- Place in competition
- Name of competition
- Venue of competition
- Date of performance
- Pre-2020 best mark (in 2020 Lists only)

2020 European Lists incorporate 40 best performances and 100 best performers in all standard track and field events for both men and women. Other national leaders are included for those countries which have no athletes in the main lists.

2020 European Under 23 Lists incorporate 50 best performers in all standard events for men and women for the age-group 20-22 only, i.e. athletes born in 1998, 1999 and 2000.

2020 European Under 20 Lists incorporate 15-19 best performances and 50 best performers in all standard U20 track and field events for men and women. Other national leading U20 athletes are included for those countries which have no athletes in the main lists.

2020 European Indoor Lists incorporate 10 best performances and 30 best performers. The indoor season 2020 is considered to be 1 October 2019 - 30 September 2020.

All-Time European Lists, updated to 13 December 2020, comprise the 30 best performances and 50 best performers in all standard track and field events for both men and women.

The 2020 Lists incorporate outdoor marks made under legal circumstances as required by World Athletics/European Athletics rules and regulations. Some results outside these rules have also been included in the main list. These are marks made in mixed races (women running with men) and all town square (or similar) jumping meetings where the circumstances are believed to comply with World Athletics/European Athletics rules.

Wind-assisted marks over the 2.0 m/s legal limit are also listed for 100m, 200m, 100m and 110m hurdles, long and triple jumps, but only for those athletes who have achieved marks better than their officially accepted performances.

In the lists for sprints, automatic times in hundredths recorded by fully automatic timing devices are included in the main list. The best manual timing times are listed below the main list, but only for those athletes who have a manual time faster than the automatic time.

For 100m, 200m, 100m and 110m hurdles, long and triple jumps, wind readings are given whenever this information is available. The readings are given in metres per second. Aiding winds are denoted by a plus sign, while adverse winds are prefixed with a minus.

Country Abbreviations

Abbreviations for countries are those officially used by World Athletics/European Athletics. Additional abbreviations used in the All-Time Lists are:
